A Place for Jazz and Swingtime Jazz Society are proud to be hosting a Jazz Hero Award Party, as a satellite of the Jazz Journalist’s Association’s Annual Awards. William (Bill) McCann will be honored as the Capital District’s 2012 Jazz Hero. JJA “Jazz Heroes” are activists, advocates, altruists, aiders and abettors of jazz who have had significant impact in their local communities. Drummer/Composer Joe Barna will present the award. The party is open to all who have an interest in jazz.

Bill McCann has graced the airwaves, mixing mainstream and classic jazz with new releases as host of “The Saturday Morning Edition of Jazz” since April, 1985. His weekly four-hour program, 8 am to noon, issues from the studios of WCDB-FM, the station at the University at Albany, State University of New York, and is heard on-line at WCDBFM.com. An attorney by day, Bill is also member of the board of directors of A Place for Jazz, a not-for-profit corporation based in Schenectady, New York, which has presented concert series for more than 25 years, as well as providing scholarships and clinics to students in local schools and colleges.

The 2012 “Jazz Hero” awards will be presented in conjunction with the 2012 Jazz Journalists Association’s Jazz Awards honoring significant achievements in jazz music and journalism. Locally, the JJA Jazz Awards Satellite Party will be held at the Van Dyck, 237 Union Street in Schenectady, on June 23 at 5:30 pm. It is co-sponsored by A Place for Jazz and the Swingtime Jazz Society. The event is free and open to the public.

A strong believer in supporting his local scene, McCann invites area musicians and promoters to showcase their projects in an oft-featured segment of his “Saturday Morning Edition” called “the Jazz Corner”; several times a year he invites local fans and players to sit in as guest DJs, picking featured music. He’s instituted special programs including an annual Duke Ellington Birthday Bash (just prior to Ellington’s birthday, April 29), and an Annual Jazz Christmas Show -- nine hours long on the Saturday before Christmas (and Bill’s favorite show of the year; he likes to say it is “All of your favorite holiday music done in a jazzy way.”

Jazz Hero

Bill grew up in a Rockland County suburb of New York City. His father was a jazz fan and his major influence, introducing him to the music via recordings, jazz performances in clubs and at concerts throughout the metropolitan area. He regularly attended meetings with his father of the Jazz Record Masters of Northern New Jersey, a group that still meets most Tuesday nights to hang out for listening parties, and he tagged along when his father made regular guest appearances on Steve Possell’s “Good Old Jazz” radio show on local WRKL-FM.

For his jazz support efforts, Bill has been named “Best Jazz DJ” by Metroland, a weekly alternative news and arts publication in New York’s Capital District, and has received official appreciation from the Albany Musicians Association, Local 14 of the American Federation of Musicians. In April of 2010, he marked the 25th Anniversary of his Saturday morning radio program with a day of jazz at the University at Albany, featuring seven bands constituted with the who’s who of area jazz musicians. As Tom Bellino, president of the Catskill-based non-profit jazz promotion group Planet Arts says, “Bill’s a real community guy when it comes to supporting music. If it wasn’t for guys like Bill and shows like his, I think there’d be a real void. Plus, his articulation - the way he speaks - is coming from the jazz vernacular.”

Bellino calls Bill a resource for the region; McCann himself describes his program as his weekly therapy session. “I play what I love. That way, my excitement gets carried over the airwaves, and when I get excited, it just gets other people excited.” McCann often gets so excited that he comes back on air after a segment of music saying breathlessly, “Man, if that didn’t get you going, you need to seek immediate, and I do mean immediate medical attention, ’cause you just might be dead.” Bill McCann is a real live Jazz Hero.

Proctors Jazz Institute

Students will be swinging in July at the Proctors Jazz Institute in downtown Schenectady, which returns this year for its eighth season.

Saxophonist and teacher Keith Pray has assembled a group of fellow musicians to work with young players on their jazz performing skills, including listening, communication and teamwork. Keith’s approach is unique in that he doesn’t use written music, preferring to teach the kids everything they need to know by ear. Students of all ages and levels of experience are eligible.

This year’s special guest will be trumpeter Ray Vega, who performed at A Place for Jazz in 2004. He will teach master classes and perform with the students in their final and public performance on July 27 in Proctors GE Theatre.

Week One: July 16 – 20, 9 am-3 pm
Week Two: July 23 - 27, 9 am-3 pm
Tuition: First week: $200, Second week: $250, both weeks: $430

APFJ Fall 2012 Series

September 14
Our series opens with Tom Harrell, one of the most acclaimed trumpeters since the early 1980s. Woody Herman, Horace Silver and Phil Woods have employed him and he’s led his own outstanding quintets since the 1990s. Displaying the improvising power of Clifford Brown, the lyricism of Chet Baker, and his own creative composing, he’s received multiple industry awards and released over 20 well-regarded CDs as a leader.

September 28
This year’s exciting vocal performer, Mary Stallings, is a celebrated veteran of 50 years. She distinctively merges the complementary influences of jazz, gospel, blues and the Great American Songbook. Her career has included stints with Cal Tjader, Billy Eckstine and Dizzy Gillespie. Her thrilling performance at the Village Vanguard led the NY Times to write “Perhaps the best jazz singer alive today is a woman almost everybody seems to have missed.”

October 12
Legendary Dick Hyman, who will perform solo, is one of those very few pianists who can capture & express the entire history of Jazz, from early New Orleans, Ragtime, Swing, Be-Bop up through modern innovations. His 65-year career as composer, songwriter, conductor, pianist, organist and arranger has encompassed a “Who’s Who” of Jazz & other music, with unmatched versatility, energy and talent.

October 26
This year’s “local” group, Bopitude, is a stirring sextet headed by drummer-vibist Michael Benedict. They were a big hit at the 2011 Albany Jazz Festival, performing their nationally ranked “Bopitude” CD. Fans of vibrant post-bop are eagerly anticipating their Whisperdome debut, following their just-released second CD, “Five and One.” Both of these feature the world’s #1 ranked baritonist Gary Smulyan, the extraordinary pianist Bruce Barth, electrifying trumpeter Chris Pasin, as well as Capital District heroes Brian Patneaude & Mike Lawrence.

November 9
World-class Cuban Conga player & singer Pedrito Martinez has been chosen by many of the biggest names in music to appear on over 100 CD’s. He brings an especially uplifting and infectious Latin Jazz quartet to close out our season. Their joyously applauded appearances last year at SPAC and other national venues guarantee this will be a memorable and fun concert.
INTERNATIONALLY ACCLAIMED ITALIAN JAZZ VIOLINIST
LUCA CIARLA & HIS QUARTET

Ciarla will be in North America to perform at the prestigious Montreal Jazz Festival, as well as festivals in Ottawa, Grand River, Rochester, Dayton and St. Paul, among many other performances.

Ever since its debut in Asia and the United States, the Luca Ciarla Quartet has been appreciated by audiences and critics for their highly original tunes and arrangements, in which contemporary jazz and ethnic music happily blend together, creating an irresistible Mediterranean jazz sound with a gypsy touch. “Open your mind to a musical journey and get on board on Luca Carla’s gypsy express train to the discovery of a wonderful world of interesting sounds and new melodies.” Eiretha Britz, Volksblad.

Ella’s @ Capital Repertory Theatre
Starring Tina Fabrique

July 24-August 12, 2012  Previews start on July 20, 2012

It’s 1966 and the first lady of song ELLA FITZGERALD, performed by the incomparable Broadway veteran Tina Fabrique, is preparing for one of the most important concerts of her career. Before the night is over she will jam with Louis Armstrong, reflect on her life and love of music and bring the house down with soulful song, swinging scat and scintillating hits like “A Tisket, A Tasket,” “How High the Moon,” “That Old Black Magic” and “They Can’t Take That Away From Me”. Come see the show that Variety calls A MUST SEE PERFORMANCE!

I openly confess to long being smitten with the warmth & style of veteran San Francisco vocalist Mary Stallings. She’s a quintessential mainstream female jazz singer, fully embodying the wonderful legacy of passed esteemed artists like Carmen McRae & Etta Jones.

All of her last 4 CD’s are very impressive (including the latest “Don’t Look Back” in 2012), since the riveting 2001 “Live at the Village Vanguard”. That live recording provided her perhaps the most national publicity in a vastly under-celebrated 50 year career, despite her associations with artists like Cal Tjader, Dizzy Gillespie, Billy Eckstine & Count Basie.

But this 2010 gem, “Dream”, struck this observer as the most moving & polished, in the way her drive & soulfulness is so magnificently balanced with her melodic timbre, phrasing and interpretation. Swinging numbers like the inviting opener, “Close Enough For Love”, with its captivating tempo changes, the vibrant Victor Young classic “Weaver of Dreams”, long favored by sophisticated instrumentalists & vocalists, and the uplifting “Dream Dancing” were all engagingly projected. This was with the essential support of pianist-arranger Eric Reed & his trio, as he did on 3 of her last 4 CD’s (Geri Allen performed that role on the 2005 “Remember Love”).

The ballads, such as the torchy “Old Black Magic” and the serene “Moon Ray” were passionately rendered with conviction, clarity and a command that consistently captures one’s attention. But oddly enough, of the 11 excellent tracks, the one I found most indelibly memorable was the obscure, intensely intimate ballad “Hey Now”, where her simple, but heart-wrenching reading compelled me to play it repeatedly.

Lovers of superior singing are strongly advised to catch her on Sept 28 at the Whisperdome.

Fedchock Teaches Shen Students

Jazz trombonist John Fedchock recently spent four days working and performing with students at Shenendehowa High School in Clifton Park.

He arrived on April 25, before the start of the Shenendehowa Jazz Festival, and worked with the school’s Jazz Ensemble and Jazz Band on several pieces, including his own arrangement titled “Skylight.”

The festival featured Shenendehowa district jazz groups. The closing day of the festival was an invitational event and featured high school jazz bands from around the region.

Fedchock, 54, studied at Ohio State University and the Eastman School of Music in Rochester and worked for several years in the Woody Herman Orchestra.
