APFJ Fall 2017 Concert Series Starts September 8 with the Larry Willis Trio!

Those who appreciate an invigorating, all-encompassing piano trio are in for a treat on Friday, Sept. 8 at 7:30 p.m. when APFJ opens its 31st season with a trio led by the enormously versatile and highly-respected New York pianist Larry Willis. His incredibly wide-ranging 50-year career on well more than 300 recordings (including over 25 as a leader) spans Fusion, Mainstream/Post-Bop and Avant-garde in Jazz, as well as a stint as a member of Blood, Sweat & Tears for 7 years in the 1970s.

Surprisingly, he entered music not as a pianist but as a voice major, first at New York’s High School of Music and Art for gifted students, then at the Manhattan School of Music. His senior year in high school, at 17, he had his first recording date, a classical gig with the Music and Arts Choral Ensemble singing a Copland opera conducted by no less then Leonard Bernstein. He started playing the piano; and by the end of the winter, he was soon playing his first professional gigs in a jazz trio with two of his classmates, Al Foster on drums and Eddie Gomez on bass. He was quickly noticed and hired initially by Jazz luminaries like Hugh Masakela and Jackie Mclean. After his college graduation in 1965, he embarked on his extraordinary career, being called upon by dozens of the biggest stars like Dizzy Gillespie, Stan Getz, Cannonball Adderley and others too numerous to list.

Following are just a few of the excellent recordings over the years that he’s played key roles on in a wide variety of musical settings, whether he’s served as the leader or as musical director in support of bands of others. He’s always provided formidable swing, compositions, arrangements and support. Along with the high caliber of artists involved, they display his enormous talent, versatility and respect of his peers. Note that two of these very popular recordings he was chosen for were led by two outstanding vocalists (Carmen McRae and Freddy Cole), themselves also very capable pianists, who admired his unfailing rhythmic, melodic and harmonic support, in addition to innovative solos. — Tom Pierce
Dr. William Meckley, dean of the School of Music at Schenectady County Community College and longtime director of the Empire Jazz Orchestra at SCCC, will be retiring after the 2018 school year. He received his PhD from the Eastman School of Music, where he studied advanced jazz ensemble directing with Rayburn Wright.

The Empire Jazz Orchestra has been a mainstay of the Capital Region jazz scene for 25 years, and has presented a long string of memorable concerts featuring guest performances by major jazz artists. This year's fall concert will be on October 17. Meckley's last concert with the EJO will be on April 17.

The EJO was formed in 1992 at the request of Butch Conn, founder of a Place for Jazz. "He asked me to put together a group to play for a children's concert," Meckley said. "We put together an octet and we also did a concert for a Place for Jazz. The following year we became an orchestra in residence at SCCC."

That orchestra has kept the big band tradition alive in all its aspects, featuring arrangements by such pioneers as Fletcher Henderson, Don Redman and Duke Ellington as well as those of many modern composers and arrangers. Meckley's inspiration at the beginning was The Lincoln Center Jazz Orchestra. "It was the model of American classical music for big band," he said. "All these Ellington arrangements became available ... We did a whole bunch of stuff from the Claude Thornhill Orchestra, including some really early Gerry Mulligan and Gil Evans."

For much of the band's history, the college has funded a guest artist for the spring concert. "The first guest soloist was Benny Golson," Meckley said. He was followed by such luminaries as Jimmy Heath, Slide Hampton, Dave Holland, Randy Brecker and Wycliffe Gordon, often bringing their own arrangements. "I tried as often as I could to have writers," Meckley said. "And then we commissioned some music."

As director of the music department at SCCC, Meckley has seen some talented musicians perform at the college and go on to their own careers in music. "If you look at the local public schools, a lot of the graduates are teaching here," he said. "Some music students have gone on to music school, to get doctorates. One of our students, a guitar player, couldn't even read music; he got hooked on classical guitar, then got a doctorate at Eastman [School of Music] and ended up at the Peabody Conservatory."

The college's music program was small at the start. "At the time there were only two full-time faculty," he said. "But there was a commitment to high standards. ... Now we have about 200 majors, a new state of the art studio, and we have an amazing faculty. What's great about this area is the part-time faculty: Cliff [Brucker], Brian [Patneaude] and all these great classical musicians. We're so rich in musicians."

Meckley usually conducts the band's performances, but had an epiphany during a concert of Claire Fischer's music. "Brent [Fischer's son] was conducting and I went out in the audience to listen; and that's a different experience. It was then that I realized: These guys are great! This band is really great!"

For his final season, "We will be revisiting some of our favorites this year as well as some things we have not played before," he said. "Also, because of budget restraints, we will not have a guest artist in spring as usual. I may invite some of the EJO alumni to come and play, however."

This fall's concert will include a piece by Billy Strayhorn, "Pentonsilic." "Strayhorn wrote it in 1941; Duke never recorded it but a little bit of it ended up in The Perfume Suite. It's a lengthy work with a lot of counterpoint. ... a lot of piano solo space. Dave Gleason will be soloing with us on it."

And finally, the big question: What is the future of the Empire Jazz Orchestra? "I don't have an answer," he said. "I suspect it might not continue. There might be a couple of people around who might want it to continue, and I would hope to have a voice in that decision."

Whatever that decision is, Bill Meckley will leave behind some luminous memories of great music, and a legacy of having had a major impact on the cultural life of the Capital Region. A Place for Jazz wishes him a long and happy retirement -- filled, of course, with music. — Tim Coakley
