APFJ Fans Buy Hundreds of Tickets
Forty Percent of Advance Tickets Sold!

In its fifth year of presenting a Fall Jazz Series, A Place for Jazz seems to be on its way to a sell-out. With September 9th the last day for subscription ticket sales, forty percent of all advance tickets have already been sold.

Fans have been reacting very positively to the mix of vocal and instrumental, bebop and samba and a touch of the new and offbeat as part of the subscription series. The series, which begins on September 18th with Jazz diva Ronnie Wells, continues with Claudio Roditi on October 9, The Either Orchestra on October 23, The Empire Orchestra on November 7 and closes with Rene Rosnes and her Quartet on November 20. All the evening shows begin at 8pm and the special Introduction to the Jazz Orchestra on November 7th begins at 2:30pm.

Applause and Awards for APFJ

Organizations like A Place for Jazz get applause in a variety of ways. Some of it comes from the clapping of hands at a concert. Of course, selling out a concert is another way of getting applause. But now, national recognition has come to A Place for Jazz. The Mid-Atlantic Arts Foundation announced that APFJ would receive a grant from the Lila Wallace Readers Digest Fund. Competition for this award came from 8 states on the Eastern Seaboard.

Fans have also praised the wonderful acoustics in the “Whisperdome” and the intimacy of the obstruction-free 300 seat facility that allows every gesture to be seen, every note to be heard without distraction. Hearing Jazz in such circumstances is almost unheard of in this area. And the low prices (about half of what you’d pay to see a rock star at the Knick) has created a heavy demand for the limited seating.

The Sound of Surprise
Whitney Balliett, New Yorker jazz critic, published (1959) essays entitled 'The Sound of Surprise.' It’s a title I’ve always admired, epitomizing the virtues, excitements, of jazz improvisation, whether listening to Louis, Bird or significant others.

Well, I underwent my annual pilgrimage to Sunday SPAC-Jazz and was not surprised by much.

I rejoiced in annual infusion of life-force from BB King. I missed Laurindo Almeida by minutes; he performed and was invisible by 1:00pm. (After a dozen years SPAC still insults performers and fans because they won’t inform anyone of the schedule, even by broadcast, a day in advance.)

I heard Eddie Daniels live; what an extraordinarily accomplished clarinetist!

Generally, however, the music was ho-hum.

My cherished memory is anonymous - due to the execrable Gazebo sound system and inarticulate amateur announcing. I heard Unit - 2, a Tpt/Trom/Tenor/Piano/Bass/Dms bebop band; very good. My ‘Sound of Surprise’ was the drummer, a long ‘Cherokee’ at a very fast clip using brushes (hard work requiring great skill and strength) and refined taste. Memories of the great brush players (Sid Catlett, Denzil Best, e.g.) flooded in; the spirit soared. A real surprise.

Thanks, Unit - 2; Sorry I don’t know your names.

There are two Bass players named Wicks. Sometimes it causes confusion. A call for a gig may go to one when it’s meant for the other. They both have a good reputation in the area for strong musicianship. One frequently fills in for the other. They live in the same house and share some equipment. And occasionally there is a contest as to who gets the “good” GK amplifier on a night when they both have a job.

Mike Wicks is the father of Gary Wicks. When he was playing in the pit band for Chita Rivera at the old Coliseum Theatre (now the Starlite) he heard Ms. Rivera talk about how her mother taught her how to dance. Gary was just four years old then but it set Mike to thinking. What was he going to hand down to his son?

There are many famous parent/child traditions in music. The Bachs are perhaps the most famous and then there are the Serkins, the Raitts and the Guthries. In Jazz, families of musicians are almost the usual. Duke and Mercer Ellington, Miles Davis and his mother, Nancy Wilson and her father, Thelonious Monk and TS Monk. It is a wonderful gift to pass on. It’s the gift of a very distinct point of view.

Mike started Gary out with an electric Bass sitting in a guitar stand like an upright Bass so he could learn about fingers and fingerboards. By the first grade, Gary was playing in front of his classmates. Mike remembers all the levels of learning: the first time Gary found an unknown note strictly by ear. The first time he was able to read by just using the symbols for chords. And their discussions about music theory and chords as they drove to Willard Mt. to ski together.

Mike continued to work very actively, playing “both sides” of the musical fence. One night big bands or Bar Miztvahs; the next week symphony orchestras. There were pit orchestras at Cohoes Music Hall, Proctors and the Starlite.

As he progressed as a musician, sometimes Gary would “sit-in” for his Dad. And then there were his own gigs with his own peers. (No “sittin-in” on these gigs). There were also the times when they played together with the Berkshire Symphony Orchestra or with the Albany Symphony Orchestra for the Mother’s Day concert.

Gary graduated from High School this year and is headed toward the New England Conservatory where he will study both Jazz and Classical Bass. He’s a young man of amazing prepossession. Anyone who has ever seen him solo will be positively amazed at his concentration and creativity. He performs like a man who has received a very wonderful gift.

Last year APFJ sold 94% of its tickets, an almost unheard of record for a music series. A 6% increase over last year would result in a complete sell-out.

RONNIE WELLS
Friday, September 18,
8pm

In recent years such stars as Shirley Horn, Roberta Flack and Buck Hill have emerged from Washington, D.C. and received national attention. Now Ronnie Wells' reputation has burst out of the Beltway. Her performance is a continuation of the long tradition of Jazz songwomanship that has passed from Bessie to Billie, Billie to Sarah with a touch of Ella, Dinah and Carmen along the way.

You'll love this opening concert. You'll love her quartet under the direction of Ron Elliston. We sincerely hope you manage to get a ticket because we would not want any of our friends of Jazz to miss this one!

CLAUDIO RODITI SEXTET
Friday, October 9,
8pm

Claudio Roditi returns to us by popular demand. His sold out concert two years ago is a testament to his drawing power. Mr. Roditi, born in Brazil, is one of those rare Jazz birds who has managed to transport himself from one culture to another without leaving anything behind. His wonderful fusion of Bebop and the Samba has made him an integral force in the music of Dizzy Gillespie's UN Orchestra and Paquito D'Rivera's sizzling small groups.

His warm sound and fantastic facility on the trumpet is only one of the treats in store. Mr. Roditi is one of the finest composers and arrangers in Jazz today. And if that's not enough you'll have the thrill of hearing his smokey singing voice in Portuguese and English. The last time he appeared in the area, the lines began forming an hour before the performance.

THE EITHER ORCHESTRA
Friday, October 23,
8pm

The Either Orchestra is a little "Big Band" which has fused the old with the new in some remarkable and very humorous ways. You'll have a chance to hear them as they begin their national tour.

In a recent recording this 9 piece group did an offbeat interpretation of "Willow Weep for Me" that suddenly became a parade-time treatment of Thelonious Monk's "Nutty" which in turn became Bobbie Gentry's "Ode to Billie Joe".

It is a band of many vivid colors that range from the moodiness of Ellington to the boisterousness of a New Orleans Brass Band. You'll have a terrific evening that combines the astonishment of the new with the warm recognition of the familiar.

THE EMPIRE JAZZ ORCHESTRA
Saturday, November 7,
2:30pm

This special concert performed by the Empire Jazz Orchestra will feature the group's nine piece nucleus under the direction of Bill Meckley. Mr. Meckley will present his wonderful special arrangements of the Jazz Masters in a way that will delight children and their adult companions. In addition to a great hour of Jazz, the audience will learn instruments, how they're used in a Jazz Orchestra and how this music got started. This will be an afternoon filled with fun for all. Come and share you love of Jazz with a young friend!

Tickets $8.00 for Adults and $4.00 for children 12 years and under.
CONCERTS are on Friday nights at 8:00 pm at the First Unitarian Society in Schenectady. Tickets are $13.50 each except for the Empire Jazz Orchestra, which is $8.00 for adults, $4.00 for children. Series tickets (adult tickets for all 5 concerts) are $54.00 — 15% off! For more information, call (518) 374-6912.
